LEAGUE AND SUNDAY SCHOOL.

THE ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES IN WEST MARKET LAST NIGHT.

The Music a Feature of the Occasion—Dr. James Atkins in His Speech Describes a Beautiful Sunset He Saw at Asheville. Also Some of the Grandeur of the Closing Days of the Nineteenth Century—Of the Great Discoveries of the Century the Greatest is the Discovery of the Christian Child.

Every particle of available space in the spacious West Market Street Methodist church was occupied last night by the audience gathered to enjoy the anniversary exercises under the direction of officials of the Conference Epworth League and Sunday School work. The musical part was again directed by the capable leader, Mr. H. Spence. Hymn 16, "Standing on the Promises," was the opening. It brought to mind the teaching that God is not slack concerning his promises. Who goes unblessed in this life when His word is believed, trusted and made a rule of action? Man fails frequently; God never.

The duet, "I Surrender All," was delightfully rendered by Messrs. Spence and McLarty, the choir and congregation joining in the chorus. Right here, it is not out of time, to remark that Mr. Spence has done much to make the night meetings exceedingly harmonious.

Mr. G. L. Hackney, Asheville, and by the way, one of the brightest young men in the State, and the chairman of the Epworth League work, was master of ceremonies. He knows how.

Rev. J. C. Troy led the opening prayer.

Rev. C. F. Sherrill, Secretary of the Epworth League, and Rev. W. H. Willis, Treasurer, read their annual reports. Mr. D. B. Coltrane, Treasurer and Secretary of the Sunday School Board, made his report, with special reference to the Children's Day Fund.

The audience appreciated the sweet song, "Ye Must be Born Again," by Messrs. Spence, McLarty, Betts and Phillips.

Rev. Mr. Kirby offered the following resolution which was adopted:

Whereas, there is great need of Missionary Sunday School work in the bounds of our Conference, and whereas the Children's Day Fund is the only means the Treasurer has for meeting this need, therefore,

Resolved; That we as preachers and laymen try to observe Children's Day in all our churches and press the collection as far as possible.

G. F. KIRBY,
C. F. SHERRILL.

The presiding officer, Mr. Hackney, then introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. James Atkins, the able editor of Methodist Sunday school literature. He is the General Secretary of the Sunday School Department, and knows how to be. The speaker regarded the occasion as one of extraordinary sublimity, especially, because it was the last of the present century. This Conference inaugurated the Epworth League and Sunday School Anniversary and he commented pleasantly upon the fact.

The Supreme glories of a century, he declared, is its sunset glory; and, if alive to this truth we must, necessarily, do much for the cause which is intended to develop the young, so that the closing days of old age may be the glorious sunset of a life well spent. In the beginning with perfect words, as harmonious as perfect music, he described a certain sunset, which he had witnessed in November, last, while resting in Asheville. He had seen many, such only as Asheville and its delectable precincts can furnish; but, this one was brand new. He had never seen its like before. Pisgah, the forests near the beautiful Swananoa, the Black Mountain where Mitchell sleeps, each played a part before night dropped the curtain on the wonderful scene where the Angels of God seemed to be putting a benediction on nature and when God Himself as an Artist was doing His best. Well, Trojan can't write like Dr. Atkins talks, and he doesn't pretend to do so. But the picture made by the wonderfully painter of words is about the writer to some degree any way. The speaker delighted in the prattle of the young, and all that, but nothing is so glorious as the sunset of a life spent in the service of God. It is the Sun's every day work which makes the glories of the sunset. Two generations back have failed to see what we have seen. This is the most splendid century in all the annals of time. The revelation of the application of steam is a fruit of this century. Men now living who can remember the application of steam as a locomotive or local power. Enough railroads now to make 14 lines around the earth at the equator. Man traveling at the rate of 60 miles an hour but may work all the same. His picture of the ocean steamer, with the power of 28,000 horses, carrying 1500 people across the ocean in a few days, the flying ship under the control of one man, was graphic, vivid. He spoke of the wonders of electricity in two decades. Improvements in telegraphy, telephony and another machine, at one end of which a fellow may stand in New York and flash a light showing the expression of his beautiful wife's face in Greensboro. What a wonderful thing this will be for the boys desiring to communicate with their girls and see their beautiful faces a thousand miles off. This generation is one peculiarly favored of God. He spoke of numerous discoveries, wonderful and important. But the supreme discovery of the century is the discovery of the Christian child. These had been asleep in every age, every century, until Robert Raikes opened the first Sunday school in Gloucester. That was the beginning of the new child life. No such responsibility ever rested on other generations as on this. In the solution of every problem, social, political, religious etc., this race turns its face to the child. There is where salvation must begin. Instead of "the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world," we might say, "the hand that rules the cradle rocks the world." That is about right, and the Doctor was warming up by this time. The destiny of the world is in charge of those who care for the cradle. Take hold of the race in the cradle. The Sunday school teachers with inspired hand to lead the child. After awhile the Epworth League takes hold and puts him to work. It is an organization of young people at the close of the century for meeting God's will.

The means are manifold to meet this great responsibility. But the chief is work. Development impossible without it. Rope walkers begin in childhood. There must be skilled labor. The times demand it. We must begin with them when they are young. If a man will do the will of God he shall know the doctrine. But no man can do the will until he knows the doctrine. How can he teach unless he knows how?

The Epworth League, 200,000 strong has the ability to raise all the money now raised by all the churchs' force and be hunting for a job in a year. The Sunday school in North Carolina, 60,000, could raise everything and be out of a job at the close of the year. Don't grunt, brethren, the calculation is made. Give the children a chance in the matter of benevolences. The laymen need development. But for one in England, the Twentieth Century Movement might not have been inaugurated. Real education is needed. Contact with the best books. This must be a reading generation. But don't run after strange books. You will starve on trash and die as sure as if you had taken poison. Dare to read good books only. The Church must create the real aristocracy, the best society.

In concluding, he hoped all might be brought to a realization of the multiplied powers of the closing century available for the successful carrying out of what is best for the world. And for himself, and his hearers, he prayed for a glorious sunset when the work of each was about to close and an everlasting habitation in the eternal home of the blest.

This is but an imperfect sketch of the address. But perhaps may give an idea to the folks who were not there, what they missed.

"I Want to be a Worker for the Lord," and "God be With You 'Til We Meet Again," were the closing hymns, and after the benediction by Dr. Atkins, the last anniversay of the Sunday school and Epworth Leage departments for this century, stood adjourned.

THE THIRD DAY OF CONFERENCE

A VERY INTERESTING SESSION THIS MORNING.

Dr. Thompson, Manager of the American Sunday League Makes a Speech and Tells an Incident of the Cleveland Administration—Missionary Anniversary Tonight—Bishop Morrison's Joke on Mr. Johnson.

Conference convened at 9 a. m. this morning, Bishop Morrison in the chair. Religious exercises conducted by Rev. T. A. Boone. The old time hymn, "A Charge to Keep I Have!" was sung as only the Methodist preachers can sing it. Mr. Boone then made a fervent prayer.

Several delegates and preachers absent yesterday answered to their names. A. G. Kirkman, alternate, substituted for A. E. Conrad, regular delegate.

The minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

Communication from Payne Institute and Lane College was read and referred to appropriate committee. This institution belongs to the colored Methodist Episcopal church, under the care of the M. E. Church, South. The Bishop spoke highly of this work, that this branch of the colored church had clung tenaciously to Southern Methodism. This Conference will raise during the next year $300 for the support of this school. Every Conference in the connection contributes annually to the Payne and Lane Institute. It is money well invested.

Communication from Rev. Dr. H. M. DuBose, general secretary of the Epworth League, was read and referred. The Doctor expected to attend the Conference, but found it impossible in consequence of other duties.

Rev. J. T. Stover offered a resolution in reference to ministers exchanging circuits.

Dr. Thompson, the manager of the American Sunday League, was introduced and given ten minutes, the Bishop remarking that ten minutes would be given to any other man as handsome as Dr. Thompson. The Doctor found himself for the first time among Tar Heels. This organization, the American Sunday League, is designed to protect our American Sunday The increase of population in the United States is 26 per cent. The increase of Sunday labor is over 50 per cent. Three millions of Sunday laborers and increasing all the time. A boy in the army had promised his mother to not forget Sunday. He refused to go to target practice on that day, although commanded by his officer. Was fined and imprisoned for disobedience of orders. The war department refused to reverse this sentence. The Sunday League took up the matter. Grover Cleveland got hold of it, smashed all precedents, pardoned the boy, and had his fine remitted.

Dr. Crawford extended an invitation from Dr. McIver, president of the State Normal College, for the Conference to visit the Institution. The young ladies and the officers of the College will visit the Conference tomorrow and have seats in the gallery.

THE GATTIS-KILGO CASE ON

LOOKS LIKE A METHODIST CONFERENCE IN SESSION.

Began Yesterday at Oxford and Promises to be a Hot Fight—Kilgo Makes Separate Answer from Odell and Duke—The Great Array of Legal Talent.

The suit of Rev. T. J Gattis against Dr. J. C. Kilgo, W. R. Odell, and B. N. Duke, president and trustees, respectively, of Trinity College, was begun at Oxford yesterday afternoon. The suit grows out of the famous Clark-Kilgo controversy. In that trail before a committee, Dr. Kilgo in his speech of defense makes serious attacks upon Gattis, who was a witness against him. This speech was published in pamphlet form by the defendants.

By this publication the plaintiff claims to have been deeply wronged, and damaged in feelings and business in the sum of $100,000, for which he asks judgment

The defendant Kilgo made separate answers from that of Duke and Odell. He denies that his words were published with malicious intent, but that they were a privileged publication, a true and accurate account of the Clark-Kilgo controversy, to which the friends of Trinity College and the Methodist church were entitled. But while denying that there was anything malicious in its publication, Dr. Kilgo declared that everything he said in his speech about Mr. Gattis was true, and that the arguments and inferences drawn from his statements, were accurate. Messrs. Duke and Odell in their answer, deny that they published or caused to be published the speech complained of, but that the publication was made by order of the trustees of Trinity College. They contend in justification of this that it was a privileged publication made necessary by certain misrepresentations and newspaper comments touching the Clark-Kilgo controversy, heard before the trustees of Trinity College in August, 1898.

There is one of the greatest arrays of legal talent ever seen in the State. The number of ministers in attendance gives Oxford the appearance of entertaining a Conference.

SUITS AGAINST STURGIS & CO.

L. H. Sturgis Being Tried for Embezzlement and L. M. Sturgis Wanted But Not Found.

Before Esquire J. M. Wolfe this afternoon a case of much interest is being tried. It is against L. H. Sturgis on a charge of embezzlement. Mrs. O. E. Doak is the prosecutor. She let L. H. Sturgis & Co. have money to apply on a contract that they had for building a house for her and charges that $368 of it was misapplied. L. M. Sturgis, another member of the firm, has left town, and warrants are also out for him. The men came here from Virginia eight or ten months ago running a real estate and contracting business. There are a number of serious charges against them. The old man, now being tried, is the father of the young one who has skipped.

CIGARETTE FIGHT.

American Tobacco Company Said to Be Trying to Drive Carolina Brights out of Greensboro.

Yesterday and today the town has been flooded by circulars signed by the American Tobacco Company, offering to give a box of Duke of Durham, Cross-cut or Columbia cigarettes for the fronts of five boxes of either of the above brands, on presentation of same to any dealer in town, and winding up with this caution: "Don't throw your empty cigarette boxes away, as they have a value of one cent each."

There are three or four of the American Tobacco Company's men in town, and there is said to be a war going on on the cigarettes, manufactured by an independent concern at Wilson, and known as "Carolina Brights" the object being to drive them out of the market.

NOTES FROM CONFERENCE.

The Sunday school editor, Rev. James Atkins, is a member of this Conference. The literature of the church has improved steadily under his management until it will bear comparison with any literature similarly published. Dr. Atkins is quite a pulpit orator and the brethren look forward with a great deal of pleasure to his address at each Conference.

The Bishop's announcement that he will be glad to give an audience to any one desirous of consulting him, has been received with great favor by the preachers and laymen generally. This places the Presiding Elders where they belong—as adyisers; not as arbiters of their brethren's destinies.

George Hackney, of Asheville, who presided at the meeting last night, is a whole-souled Methodist. Mr. Hackney is an Englishman and a Methodist by birth; an American by adoption and marriage. He is the editor of the Epworth News, published at Asheville and is one of the successful young business men of the city.

Rev. P. L. Cobb, of the Mission Rooms at Nashville, is a young man who is growing into great favor with the North Carolina brethren. Mr. Cobb has been coming to all the conferences in Western North Carolina for the past two or three years. He is full of the subject of missions, and his wise suggestions and plans have been of very great service to the members of the Conference.

The presence of Dr. John R. Brooks is greatly missed by the members of the Conference. Dr. Brooks is absent on leave but the members hope that the business, which called him away, may speedily arrange for his return to the sessions of the Conference. Dr. Brooks was a nummber of years a presiding elder in this Conference, being placed on the Shelby, Greensboro, Charlotte and Salisbury districts. Much of the exceptional growth of Methodism in Charlottee is due to his wise work when on that district.

Rev. A. J. Burrus belongs to a type of preachers who are doing much for the people in the mountains. Mr. Burrus is capable, earnest and conscientious and withal a good preacher. He is popular with all classes and succeeds in working harmoniously with home missionaries of all denominations. A minister of the Presbyterian church in talking with the writer this morning, paid Brother Burrus a high tribute.

One of the very best men of the Conference is Rev. J. A. Scronce. Dr. Dan Atkins, speaking of Mr. Scronce, said that he had never been sent to a work which he did not build up during his term of service. Mr. Scronce is a man of very generous size and is stopping, together with Rev. J. R. Scroggs, at Mr. J. W. Merritt's. Mr. Scroggs says that he and Mr. Scronce are examples of "before and after taking."

The Sherrill family has contributed much to the preaching force in Western North Carolina Methodism. There are five preachers of that name now and all of them are kinsmen. The efficent Secretary of the Conference, Rev. W. L. Sherrill is as efficient, it would seem, as any one could be. He is reelected year after year without the slightest opposition from any quarter.

Some of the Methodist Ministers Hear Mr. Chilson.

Communicated.

The song service at the Friends' church last evening was bright and inspiring. The season of prayer and the spontaneous testimony participated in by "the stranger within the gates" as well as by well known voices was a a time of rejoicing in the goodness of God.

The sermon from the the texts "He that being often reproved hardeneth his neck shall suddenly be destroyed and that without remedy" and "My spirit shall not always strive with man'," was freighted with solemn truth and abounded in incidents which seemed to corroborate it. Five or six persons sought definite blessings.

The presence of several Methodist brethren of the Conference was an interesting and encouraging feature.

Mr. Chilson's subject this afternoon will be "The Sanctified Life and the Temptations or Testings Incident to It."

Services this evening and Saturday evening as usual. There will be no service Saturday afternoon.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking spot, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. MAN'S NEGLECT.

BY SHAWEN.

Written for The Telegram.

The inequality of devotion between men and women is astonishing in its disproportion. Nature could not have intended such discrepancy. If there is any matter in which the law of equivalents should apply, it is in that of the affections. But men have so successfully exalted the character and disposition of women without developing such advancement in themselves the line of demarkation is obscured in the distance of masculine conceit.

It is man's to exact perfection and render imperfection. He does literally as he chooses to do, and requires the woman of his love to be subsurvient to his ideas, to his pleasures, his moods, his whims. Because she loves him he flatters himself that he amounts to a great deal; that he is strong and wise and good, that he is entirely competent to direct her life, to appropriate her affection as a gift absolutely fixed within his keeping, and considers it the most natural thing in the world that she should adore him and see in him no guile.

In tender moments, when the better part of his nature is for a little while astir, he readily, honestly protests his unworthiness, deplores his many neglects, his unintended rudeness, his oversight of little, trivial courtesies, the slightest of which would have thrilled her with delight. He is quick and proud in such a mood to amend any recent act of his not in keeping with the proclivities of love. And these little reparations rejoice her heart so much that she forgives—no, not forgives, but forgets a whole catalogue of wounds inflicted needlessly, heedlessly.

No gentle woman would for the world solicit a caress, a word of tenderness, a love-look, unless it be that in the famine of an uncherished heart nature cries out for love, as one who, perishing from hunger, cries for food.

How many, many, women have stood at the door, as the man of their heart departed for the day, and longed for just one word—one uttered word, just a tender touch, some little evidence of love, the sweet assurance that through the hours of absence, even through business cares or whatever duties employ the time, occupy his thoughts, that, still, there will be little memories of her such as he told her in the wooing days, when he slipped away from work, from study, from no matter what, long enough to send her a bunch of flowers, or sweetmeats, or any token which would materialize his thought, his love of her.

But now, secure in his posession, how pitifully inconsiderate he is—how pitifully unmindful that no woman's heart ever cases to yearn hourly, momentarily, for repetition of the words, the vows, that won her heart, her very being. On, from the bridal altar to the grave, through the precious hours when her young life first hovers between life and death in the gladness and agony of bringing into the world the little life that is to perfectly unite their hearts and lives, on through fortune or misfortune, in scenes of pleasure or in hours of sadness and of pain, along fashionable streets amidst the multitude, or through solitary lanes of heather and birds and leafy trees, or in the chill twilight of curtained windows shutting out the day that the pain-racked sufferer may know repose—or, when beauty and youth have merged into the sere and sallow years, the heart of woman craves the constant utterance of love.

Tell her the old, old story o'er and o'er again. Presently lips grow mute, dumb, utterly, in death. The longing to tell unutterable love in the last hour! The sense of loss of unregarded hours when one could have poured forth the wealth of love now waiting the fearful divorce of the grave! How tenderly one strokes the dying brow—the silvered hair, so scarce, so gray, once so abundant in its wealth of gold. If there be a hasty word to recall, neglected opportunities of courtesy, of graciousness, to appall the heart when the great separation comes, how bitterly, with what infinite reproach they smite the heart!

Then in the after time, when years have laid their crushing weight upon you, with faltering feet to carry to her grave, forgotten by all save you, a bunch of flowers—flowers tended by you for her dear sake, to lay upon her tomb—to brush away the snow, no whiter than the frosty hair above your brow, and place the mute token above the silent form which you can never clasp again. How like a heartfelt apology for the remissness of the past that simple tribute is! But it is unavailing now. She cannot know of it at all. Once her hands would have trembled with delight to receive those beautiful mementos, and, given with a soft, sweet word of love, her arms would have encircled your neck and her lips would have pressed your own.

If you had known about it then, as you do now, how much happier you could have made her; how much happier yourself.

We cannot rectify the past. Every act of good or evil, of affection, of neglect, stands an accomplished incident which cannot be undone. There may be some reparation if we take due heed. But there would be less occasion for atonement if men rightly comprehended the boon of a woman's love. As it is, how few do not accept it as an ordinary, natural fact quite proper and deserved?

No man deserves such love as women give. It is the marvel, the mystery of earth. It is the sublimest, noblest faculty this side of God.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, of which Mre John Oliver, of Philadeldhia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows; 'I was in a most dreadful condition tion. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters: and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim.'' No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

GOOD ADVICE.

The most miserable things in the world are those suffering from dyspepsia and liver complaint. More than seventy-five per cent. of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects: such as sour stomach, sick headache, habitual costiveness, palpitation of the heart, heart-burn, waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, yellow skin, coated tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, etc. Go to your druggist and get a bottle of August Flower for 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you. Try it. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1900.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these, 'it might have been.'"

The Quaker poet wrote this of Maud and the Judge and of all individuals who vainly the dreams of youth recall. Isn't it likewise applicable to nations? The other day the Earl of Roseberry was installed as lord rector of Glasgow University, and on the occasion made a speech on the subject of the "British Empire," taking the position that the Empire should gird itself for a struggle for existence, "because there was a disposition abroad to challenge both its naval and its commercial supremacy," and the first step should be to weld together more closely all parts of the Empire.

This carried his lordship in a train of musings on what might have been, and he indulged in speculation of what would have happened, "had the elder Pitt, when he became first minister, not left the House of Commons he would probably have retained his sanity and authority, and he would have prevented or suppressed the reckless budget of Townsend, induced George III to listen to reason, introduced representatives of America into Parliament, and preserved the thirteen colonies to the British Crown."

Lord Roseberry thinks that under these circumstances the reform bill of 1832 would have been much earlier, for the new blood of Americans would have soon burst the old vessels of the constitution and provided for a self-adjusting system of representation such as exists in the United States now. But his most highly imaginative picture of what might have been is in the idea that, which representation accorded the Americans, they would by and by have become powerful enough to bring the British capital across seas and plant it in the new country. And this mighty transference of power would have been, without bloodshed, the most sublime spectacle of the world. He says:

Our conceptions can scarcely picture the procession across the Atlantic of the greatest sovereign and the greatest fleet in the universe. Ministers, governments, and Parliament departing solemnly for another hemisphere. Not as in the case of the Portuguese sovereigns, emigrating to Brazil under the spur of necessity, but under the vigorous embrace of the younger world, America would have hung onto the skirts of Britain and pulled her back out of European complications. She would have profoundly affected her foreign policy in the direction of peace and her influence on her domestic policy would have been scarcely less potent. Probably she would have appeased and even contented Ireland. The ancient constitution of Britain would have been rendered more comprehensive and more elastic.

On the other hand, the American yearning for liberty would have taken a different form, would have blended with other traditions, and floated into other molds. Above all, there would have been no separation, no war of independence, no war of 1812, with all the bitter memories these have left in America. To secure that priceless boon I could be satisfied to see a British federal Parliament sitting in Columbia Territory.

This is the most interesting view we have ever seen of this gigantic British mistake. It is even ahead of the claim put forward by England some two or three years ago to the effect that George Washington was one of the great Englishmen of his time. Truly "the mother country" is petting proud of us at last.

Shawen's article today on "Man's Neglect" is better than a sermon.

The Raleigh Times, discussing the proposition to have legal primaries for the nomination of State officers, says that while it has always favored the idea, that the results in South Carolina and our own late experience have been enough to settle the idea in this State. It thinks, though, that it might do to legalize county primaries in such counties as desired them. There is no need whatever of cumbering the statute books with laws on this subject. If a political party wants to select its county candidates by the primary it is very easy for it to do so, without any law whatever. A party that can't hold its own primary without a statute on the subject is not worthy of support. There are counties in the State in which the Democrats hold primaries for the nomination of county candidates, and they are perfectly fair and satisfactory and much better than conventions. In these contests there is absolutely no issue except the personal preference of the voter, and it would seem folly to cause the State to pass a law governing such insignificant matters.

The visiting ministers who have been assigned homes at either end of some of our long streets, have doubtless made the discovery that our street car line has not yet been installed.

WITH THE FRATERNITY.

The esteemed Union Republican this week devotes its editorial page to rubbing it into the likewise esteemed News and Observer. It quotes some of the latter's sure predictions of about one month ago when it was busily carrying everything but a small skirt of New England for its tickets.

The Democratic Banner, a sturdy friend of ours, down in Harnett, has a column in mourning this week. The abituary is not quite as long as the black, inverted column rules, so the space is filled out with this statement: "Corn and fodder taken on subscription at this office. Top of the market allowed."

All silver and Lincoln Republicans will be urged, it is understood, to become Democrats.—Alamance Gleaner.

"Silver and Lincoln Republicans" should have no great trouble in doing that. They ought to show some gratitude.

Noah Raby, originally of Edenton, N. C., but for the past hundred years or more a denizen of New Jersey, forty years or more having been spent in a poor house, has again celebrated his 128th birthday. According to our recollection he has been doing this for several years. Noah says he managed to scuffle along pretty well until he reached the age of ninety years, when he had to retire from business.—Wilmington Star.

Mr. Raby has not been celebrating his 128th anniversary as long as The Star would believe. We can recollect when he was celebrating his 124th birthday, and we are not old, either.

We read with much pleasure a recent statement of Dr. Peacock, president of Greensboro Methodist Female College, that Julian S. Carr "has educated there 'out of his own pocket between twenty-five or thirty needy and deserving girls.'" Out of the abundance of his liberality he had paid every cent to educate over twenty-five North Carolina girls at the chief female school of the Methodists in this State. Excellently, kindly, generously done! Wilmington Messenger.

The pretty part of it is that nobody would have known this if Dr. Peacock hadn't chosen to tell it.

Mary E. Wilkins, the noted woman author, was engaged to marry Dr. Freeman but has changed her mind as any woman has the right to do.—Concord Tribune.

But she didn't change her mind, and is going to be married, and she's mad because "you all" are talking about her so.

Ten-cent cotton is here to stay. It returns a few days earlier than The Post anticipated some two or three weeks ago it would do, but is none the less welcome on that account.—Raleigh Post.

Thus does another man recklessly jeopardize his reputation as a prophet. The safest prophet never speaks till it's all over.

The commercial spirit seems to be getting into the churches, as well as almost everywhere else. At any rate, much more is said about the amount of money raised than the number of souls converted. We are treading on dangerous ground.—Winston Sentinel.

Perhaps some of us listen more attentively when the financial figures are up.

The devil is loose and wickedness in every conceivable form is deluging every land.—Lenoir Topic.

Was the escape from bondage of the gentleman referred to a recent happening?

Transactions in dirt seem prominent features of Southern growth. On scanning the news columns of North Carolina papers, real estate transactions are numerous. It is also a fact that ordinary Tar Heel dirt has advanced steadily until the oldest inhabitants of former days would think you were trying to sell gold brick instead of plain clay.—Concord Tribune.

Many a man owns a lot of it, too, who would about as well own a gold brick. We are still land poor.

The next Legislature may make itself famous by taxing dogs for the benefit of the children. Heretofore the argument has been to tax the dogs for the benefit of the sheep and the dogs always got the better of the argument. We shall see if the children will fare better than the sheep.—Winston Sentinel.

We shall see. It is well to remember, though, that sheep are very valuable animals.

MILLIONS GIVEN AWAY.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine, and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all diseases of the throat, chest and lungs are surely cured by it. Call on C. E. Holton, druggist, and get a trial bottle free, Regular size 50 and $1. Every bottle guaranteed or price refunded.

"I don't understand why Henry is not advanced more rapidly at the store," remarked Mrs. Bjones. "It's because he is lacking in tact," replied Mr. Bjones. "They tell me he hasn't sense enough to laugh at the boss' jokes."

A THOUSAND TONGUES.

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard st., Philadelphia, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. Kings' New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

The man who loses his temper usually has an inexhaustible supply to fall back on.

TO PREPARE BILL FOR PRIMARY.

Committee Appointed in Accordance With Former Resolution to Bring the Matter Before the State Convention.

Raleigh Post.

Hon. F. M. Simmons, chairman of the Democatic State Executive Committee, yesterday named a committee of five to draft a bill providing for a legalized primary which will be submitted to the coming session of the Legislature.

This committee was named by Chairman Simmons in accordance with the provisions of a resolution adopted by the State committee at a meeting held here August 5th. The members of the committee are:

Heriot Clarkson, of Charlotte.
Ex-Governor T J. Jarvis, of Pitt.
Cyrus B. Watson, of Winston.
Thos. W. Mason, of Northampton.
Jas. S. Manning, of Durham.

Heriot Clarkston, the author of the resolution, is named as chairman.

The committee's work will very likely be vain, for a large number of the members of the General Assembly have already expressed themselves on the primary question and nearly all of them who have done so have gone on record as being unalterably opposed to the primary. The Post brought out the views of legislators on the primary subject.

The following is the resolution adopted by the State committee:

"Resolved, That the chairman of this committee appoint a committee of five, including himself, to prepare a primary system to be participated in by the white voters of North Carolina with plans, rules and regulations for government and conduct thereof and report the same to a meeting of this committee hereafter called by said chairman.

"Resolved, That said committee prepare a bill to be submitted to the next Legislature with a view to legalizing and regulating such primaries."

Crusade in Wilmington, Too.

News and Observer.

Rev. R. T. Christmas, colored, has returned from Wilmington, where he spent fifteen days in co-operative missionary crusade work. The movement was endorsed by the pastors of the city, white and colored, and the people, and their co-operation was pledged. The work was highly successful there and the people are hopeful for the splendid results.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The City Treasurer, on account of the unavoidable delay in the collection of the taxes which were due on the 1st day of October, 1900, finds himself at present short of funds, but by reason of the public spirit and accommodation of the Southern Stock Mutual Insurance Company and the Underwriters of Greensboro, I am able to announce that the said companies will cash at their face value all interest bearing warrants issued since September 1st, 1900, by the city to school teachers, policemen and other city employees, when they are in the hands of the original holders and do not exceed $100 each, provided that this order does not hold good after $3,000 has been expended in cashing the said warrants.

Applications should be made at the bank counter of the Southern Loan add Trust Company.

Z. V. TAYLOR, Mayor

8133—Ladies' Nine Gored Skirt, With Fan Back.
22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34 inch waist.

LADIES' NINE GORED SKIRT WITH FAN BACK, NO. 8133.

Contrary to the general rule which consigns many gored skirts to silks and satins, some of the latest importations of cloth gowns have their skirts shaped with nine gores, as illustrated in the accompanying design.

This skirt is made of pale blue broadcloth and fitted with a front gore, three narrow, evenly proportioned gores on the sides and back gores which are arranged in two underlying plaits at each side of the center closing. These plaits are well lapped and carefully pressed at the belt, but fall in fan effect at the floor, where the skirt sweeps slightly.

The side gores flare stylishly from the knee to the ground, and the skirt presents a graceful effect which can only be produced by many flaring gores.

It is fitted smoothly without darts around the waist and over the hips, and closely adjusted from the belt to the knees. The lower edge is finished with New Century brush binding, which looks silky and does not rub the shoes.

Satin faced cloth, Venetian, poplin, crepe meteor, zibeline, taffeta or satin are appropriate for this mode. The seams may be outlined with velvet ribbon, gold cord, narrow applique, or stitched bands of the fabric, if further decoration is desired.

To make the skirt medium size will require four and one-half yards of fifty-inch material. The pattern, No. 8133, is cut in sizes for a 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inch waist measure.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

A most attractive textile which will be much worn during the winter is poplin broche. This fabric—a silk poplin—is shown in full, deep shades of red, blue and purple, in all cases mixed with black. This latter forms the figure portions, the ground being partly glaced with black. The effect of this arrangement is extremely rich and imparts a velvety appearance to the material. It is suitable for very dressy or visiting dresses.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

of cod-liver oil is the means of life and enjoyment of life to thousands: men women and children.

When appetite fails, it restores it. When food is a burden, it lifts the burden.

When you lose flesh, it brings the plumpness of health.

When work is hard and duty is heavy, it makes life bright.

It is the thin edge of the wedge, the thick end is food. But what is the use of food, when you hate it, and can't digest it?

Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil is the food that makes you forget your stomach.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

Nell—"Maude's fiance is so original." Belle—"In what way?" Nell—"Maude says he has never told her how unworthy he is of her love."

Hoax—"The bride and groom both look rather pale." Joax—"Yes, I suppose they couldn't forget that they were being made wan."

Cancer There are never any external signs of Cancer until the blood is polluted and the system thoroughly contaminated by this deadly virulent poison.

Then a sore or ulcer appears on some part of the body; it may be small and harmless looking at first, but as the cancerous cells form and are deposited by the blood near the sore, it increases in size and severity, with sharp shooting pains. No matter how often the sore is removed by the surgeon's knife or flesh destroying plasters, another comes and is worse. The real disease is in the blood, and the treatment must begin there. The poisoned blood must be invigorated and purified, and when this is done cancerous cells can no longer form and the sore will heal naturally and permanently.

Mrs. Sarah M. Keesling, 241 Windsor Ave., Bristol, Tenn., writes: "I am 41 years old, and for three years had suffered with a severe form of Cancer on my jaw, which the doctors said was incurable, and that I could not live more than six months. I accepted their statement as true, and had given up all hope of ever being well again, when my druggist, knowing of my condition, recommended S. S. S. After taking a few bottles the sore began to heal, to the surprise of the physicians, and in a short time made a complete cure. I have gained in flesh, my appetite is splendid, sleep is refreshing—in fact, am enjoying perfect health."

SSS overcomes this destructive poison and removes every vestige of it from the system, makes new, rich blood, strengthens the body and builds up the general health.

If you have a suspicious sore, or have inherited any blood taint, send for our free book on Cancer, and write to our medical department for any information or advice wanted; we make no charge for this service. Your letter will receive prompt and careful attention, and will be held in strictest confidence.

Dr. H. B. Marley—Obituray.

Written for The Telegram.

Dr. Marley passed quietly away at his home on Asheboro street, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Dr. H. P. Marley was born Spetember 27th 1830. He located in Greensboro for the practice of medicine in 1872. For many years he enjoyed a large and lucrative practice. He was a very successful physician, and was greatly beloved by those for whom he practiced. Because of declining health, he was forced to give up active practice some years ago. To the very last, however, he was sent for and consulted by some in whose families he had practiced for more than a quarter of a century. Dr. Marley's heart was full of the milk of human kindness. Those for whom he practiced, found in him not only a skilled physician, but a kind and affectionate friend. In his home life he was a tender and loving husband and father. For nearly 30 years he was a familiar figure on the streets and in the homes of Greensboro.

The deceased leaves a wife and two children, Henry, and Mrs. George P. Crutchfield.

The M. P. Conference.

Communicated.

The annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, N. C. District, convened at Pinnacle, November 21st, at 10 a. m. Most of the members were present. Rev. J. C. Berrier, of Ohio, Corresponding Secretary and Treasure of the Board of Ministerial Education, and Rev. C. E. Wilbur, of Pittsburg, Pa., editor of the M. P. S. S. literature, came in on the evening train.

The usual business of reading the President's report and announcing and electing committees was attended to.

The order of the day for the election of Conference officers was deferred till 10 a. m. the following day.

The Conference sermon was delivered by Rev. J. H. Stowe, after which Conference closed.

SECOND DAY.

Conference opened with the usual devotional exercises, minutes read and approved. After which reports of some of the committees were read and disposed of. The order of the day having arrived for the election of officers, Conference proceeded to elect its President for the ensuing year.

Rev. C. L. Whitaker, of Kittrell, N. C., was elected on third ballot. The President-elect was then conducted to the chair. After this the President was authorized to cast the ballot of the Conference for Rev. W. E. Swaim as Secretary.

The evening session was postponed in order that the Conference might visit the Pilot Mountain. Quite a large number took advantage of this opportunity and spent a very enjoyable afternoon on the mountain and pinnacle.

At night Bros. J. C. Berien and C. E. Wilbur, of the Ohio and Pittsburg Conferences made addresses relative to their respective interests.

Bitten by a Mad Dog.

Master Verney Zachary, of Yadkinville, a little boy of apparently six or eight years of age, was at the Southern depot last night on his way to Baltimore to undergo the Pasteur treatment for hydrophobia. The little fellow was playing near his home Monday when a large rabid dog attacked him, biting him several times on the arm and neck. The wounds were cauterized and the boy was being taken to Baltimore by his uncle.
